

PODCAST NOTES:

- Here's a GREAT resource. I use this for every Sunday reading: Workbook for Lectors, Gospel Readers, and Proclaimers of the Word® (United States Edition). Find it at <https://www.ltp.org/>.
- The U.S. Catholic conference of Bishops has a podcast of the daily readings, not just the ones for Sundays:

This is also a great resource for pronunciation of some of those funky names and places we encounter in our readings.

- Also, if you want to use your own “cheat sheet” of the reading at the ambo, you can copy the text from the USCCB website at <https://bible.usccb.org/bible/readings/>. Click on the “View Calendar” box on the right, just below today’s date. This will take you to a calendar where you can click on the day of your reading. Then copy the text into a word processing file of your choice as discussed in the podcast.
- A really quick description of Lectio Divina:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qcERMKqFQvM>

- For a deep dive into nonverbal communication, see Mehrabian, Albert (1971). Silent Messages (1st ed.). Belmont, CA: Wadsworth. ISBN 0-534-00910-7. For a shallow dive, go to <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bPi7GmQIjB8>.